BIKE LAWYER, DAVID HAY, K.C., QUOTED IN HUB MEDIA RELEASE

HUB Cycling is looking to break their record by reaching more than 7000 people this fall when reminding cyclists it's often faster and more rewarding to commute by bike through Metro Vancouver. In a recent media release by HUB in support of the upcoming Fall Bike To Work Week initiative, David Hay, K.C., reminded cyclists and drivers of important things to consider when riding.

"The vast majority of collisions between people on bikes and people driving involve a failure to keep a proper look out," says David Hay K.C., a bike lawyer and bike commuter from Richards Buell Sutton LLP. "It is thus very important for drivers to watch for people on bikes, especially when turning right or opening their car doors. It's also important for people on bikes to use lights day or night this fall."
