TECHNOLOGY & INNOVATION

The Technology and Innovation Group provides advice to technology companies at every stage of their lifecycle, including entrepreneurs and startups. It also represents business incubators, commercialization funds, and investors that invest in the technology industry.

The firm advises on general corporate and securities matters, licensing and technology transfers, mergers and acquisitions, venture capital and private equity financing, protection and enforcement of intellectual property, and employment matters. The lawyers at RBS have gained valuable industry experience working as in-house counsel within technology companies and research institutions. The firm's industry experience, commitment to client service and team approach allows it to provide you with cost-effective and invaluable advice.
